NEW QUESTION: 1
You are a project manager for a software project. As you are defining the scope of the work you need to do, you sit down with all of the project's stakeholders and record all of the requirements you can get from them. Which of the following is NOT a valid requirement from stakeholder analysis?
A. The quality of the product must t within organizational metrics for software quality.
B. There can be no more than 5% schedule variance on the project
C. The budget must be within 10% of our projected cost.
D. The work the team does must be better than they did on their last project.
Answer: D
Explanation:
Saying that the work must be "better" is subjective. Requirements gathered in stakeholder analysis need to be quantifiable. That way, the team has a goal they can shoot for and you can always tell how close or far from it you are.
