What three actions are limitations when running IPS in promiscuous mode? (Choose three.)

- A. deny attacker
- B. request block host
- C. deny packet

- D. reset TCP connection
- E. modify packet
- F. request block connection

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:

Explanation

In promiscuous mode, packets do not flow through the sensor. The disadvantage of operating in promiscuous mode, however, is the sensor cannot stop malicious traffic from reaching its intended target for certain types of attacks, such as atomic attacks (single-packet attacks). The response actions implemented by promiscuous sensor devices are post-event responses and often require assistance from other networking devices, for example, routers and firewalls, to respond to an attack.

Which three statements about implementing a NAT application layer gateway in a network are true? (Choose three.)

- A. Application layer gateway is used only in VoIP/SIP deployments.
- B. It allows synchronization between multiple streams of data between two hosts.
- C. An application layer gateway inspects only the first 64 bytes of a packet before forwarding it through the network.
- D. Client applications require additional configuration to use an application layer gateway.
- E. It allows client applications to use dynamic ports to communicate with a server regardless of whether NAT is being used.
- F. It maintains granular security over application-specific data.

Answer: B,E,F

Explanation:

An application-level gateway (ALG), also known as an application-layer gateway, is an application that translates the IP address information inside the payload of an application packet. An ALG is used to interpret the application-layer protocol and perform firewall and Network Address Translation (NAT) actions. These actions can be one or more of the following depending on your configuration of the firewall and NAT: Reference.
